You must attend the classroom portion in order to qualify for certification.

For employees attending the class, after you pass the classroom portion, the trainer will set up a time to visit your site and observe your operation of the aerial lift. The lift must be in good operating condition and must be available for use.

- Aerial lifts include scissor lifts, man lifts, boom lifts (truck mounted and/or trailer mounted), platform lifts, or other type of man lift system.
- There are specific requirements for each type of these aerial personnel lifts.
- These are NOT forklifts – but are specifically designed to handle humans working at elevated levels.
- This is not a basic training class – remember you must be a qualified operator – this is a certification class. If you have never operated a lift before, you may still attend the class, however there WILL be limitations on the certification process.
- The certification is good for 3 years and satisfies OSHA requirements.

Please be prepared to provide the name and phone number of the supervisor and the type of lift to be operated (Type and model #)
